A Healthy Relationship with Money

- ✓ Healthy habits with personal finances are built slowly over time by making a series of small, but important decisions such as cutting back unnecessary expenses, investing, and avoiding excessive fees and interest charges.
- ✓ Financial issues will not go away if they are ignored. They may even get worse over time. Acknowledge and rectify financial problems right away with the help of trusted sources.
- ✓ Invest in your own financial education by learning financial management skills such as budgeting, money management and saving for future expenses.
- ✓ Start now to secure your financial future by creating multiple ways to develop financial security. These may include investing, saving, working a side job or second job, reducing and even sharing living expenses.

Plan It Out

Map your financial future by creating a financial plan. Where are you now and where do you want to be financially? Be specific with your salary, property, savings, investments, debts, and sources of income.

Realistic Budget

Now that you know where you are and where you want to be, creating a realistic monthly budget can be an eye-opening experience to know how much extra income you have or need to achieve your long-term financial plan.

Consolidate, Cut & Save

Scrutinize every dollar that is leaving your bank account as an expense. What subscriptions or costs can you cut? Can you consolidate debt into a lower interest rate loan? Do you have an emergency fund that you're regularly contributing to?
